ANNUAL REPORT

FISCAL YEAR 2023

OUR MISSION

To help children thrive; and to build, strengthen and sustain individual, family and community life.

NON-DISCRIMINATION

Our services are available to all people regardless of race, color, ethnicity, religion, disability, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or gender expression.

OUR DEFINITION OF FAMILY

A family consists of two or more people, whether living together or apart, related by blood, marriage, adoption or commitment to care for one another.

A MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

I'm proud to share that Children's Home supported nearly 5,000 individuals through our services this year. There are so many remarkable stories, and no two are exactly the same.

Not only is our work deeply personal for the individuals and families we serve, but also for our staff, 75% of whom have a close, personal connection to adoption. The lived experience of those impacted by foster care and adoption shapes the practice, service and support we offer today.

Since 1889, Children's Home has focused on finding families for children through adoption. Our adoption services continue to be our core focus. We've also expanded our foster care and support services to meet the evolving needs of children and families served by our teams in Minnesota and at our East Office, as well as those we support through national and international programming.

Our support services aim to address the personal and relational complexities that can come with foster care and adoption. Whether it be the launch of a support group for parents of adult adoptees, or a free community event for LGBTQIA2S+ foster and adoptive families, our new services are having a positive impact.

This work would not be possible without your steadfast support. Thank you for helping us continue to adapt and grow after 134 years.

In gratitude,

Heidi Wiste | President

OUR INTERNATIONAL ADOPTION JOURNEY

KERALA TO SHOREVIEW

Nick and Heather Patrek spent 2021 gathering and completing international adoption paperwork. It was all over except for the waiting, which they were told could take up to a year.

Just one week after finishing the paperwork, Nick and Heather learned about an infant girl in the Indian state of Kerala. Nick recalled thinking, “Well, this is not at all what we thought was going to happen. But clearly, this is happening!”

The Patreks decided to adopt after a year of attempting pregnancy. They weren’t interested in the arduous process of IVF or other interventions. “We figured if we didn’t get pregnant, it was a sign that adoption was meant to be for our family,” said Heather.

The Patreks received the child’s file the next day and came to learn the baby girl had been born three months premature. Nick and Heather sought advice from local doctors, who said they couldn’t predict with certainty that the child wouldn’t have health issues. The Patreks decided to take “a leap of faith.”

“It’s the same kind of gamble if you have a biological child,” said Nick. “There might be issues, but we felt we could handle those.”

Ten months later, it was time to fly to India to meet the child who would become their daughter. They arrived at the orphanage, and within five minutes, 14-month-old Eva was in their arms, weighing just 13 pounds.

At home in Shoreview, Minnesota, Eva’s huge personality—“easy going, happy, and a little bit of sass”—has revealed itself, according to her mother. Now a busy two-year-old who is always on the move and talking up a storm, Eva has made significant developmental leaps, meeting and even exceeding benchmarks for her age.

Heather said they have also discovered local Indian cultural connections. “We take it as another sign that our family was meant to be.”

POST ADOPTION SUPPORT

WHERE WE ARE & WHAT'S TO COME

This year Children's Home began the extensive effort of refreshing our post adoption services. While the project is complex, its focus is simple: to provide post adoption services that better meet the needs of the children, individuals and families being served today.

This endeavor began with a survey that yielded hundreds of enlightening responses. Those responses, coupled with community engagement and client work, indicated there is a clear and growing need for support in navigating openness in adoption.

Since the 1980s, open adoption has been practiced in domestic adoptions. With the mainstreaming of DNA testing and the worldwide adaptation of technology, openness is an increasingly common experience in domestic, foster care and international adoptions.

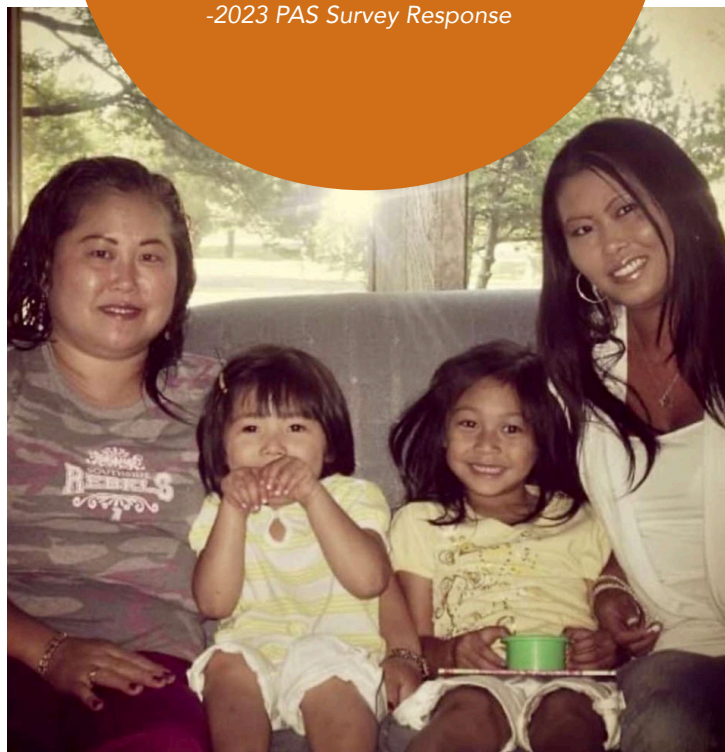

These relationships, as any, can be complex and evolve over time. Through a new service called Openness Consultation, funded by Minnesota Department of Human Services, Children's Home will support one or more parties in an open adoption relationship. Our support could help prepare individuals for openness or serve as an intermediary when an open relationship hits a rough patch.

Like many of our support services, we will offer Openness Consultation both virtually and in person. Thanks to the availability of our Adoption Support Fund, we can ensure fees are not a barrier for those who need to access this meaningful support.

The evolution and expansion of our post adoption support services aligns beautifully to our mission—to help children thrive; and to build, strengthen and sustain individual, family and community life. We look forward to sharing more in the year ahead.

"I had the pleasure of working with Children's Home on my birth family search. Thank you so much for providing a truly life-changing service."

MSP PILOTS FOR KIDS: BRINGING HOLIDAY JOY WITH A FLIGHT TO REMEMBER

Navigating a trek to visit Santa Claus at the North Pole is no small feat. Luckily, MSP Pilots for Kids—a long-time partner of Children’s Home—knows the way.

For more than 20 years, this dedicated group has offered a fun-filled holiday adventure to children experiencing foster care in Minnesota, their siblings, and caregivers through their annual “Flight to the North Pole” event.

Experiencing the excitement and wonderment of a bustling holiday airport is a magical experience for the young travelers who attend. Games, activities, snacks, and crafts hosted by the group add to the fun, as do visits from local mascots—including crowd favorite Goldy Gopher.

The highlight of the event comes when kids are called to board a festively decorated plane which “takes off” for the North Pole by taxiing down the runway. Once the flight arrives at its North Pole destination, Santa boards the plane to greet passengers, sing carols and share treats.

“We are grateful to community partners like MSP Pilots for Kids for making life a little brighter for kids in our community through this treasured event,” shared Kristina Berg, director of engagement for Children’s Home. “It’s an extraordinarily joyful day!”

COMMUNITY CONNECTIONS

Fall Gathering | November 2022

The annual Fall Gathering provided the perfect opportunity for the leadership team at Children's Home to share their gratitude with donors, volunteers and long-time mission partners. The evening also offered timely organizational updates as well as ideas for connection in the year ahead.

East Office Event | May 2023

Adoptees, adoptive parents, Children's Home Board members and East Office staff gathered at the home of Sue and Jim Orban last May to build community, connect over a shared commitment to kids and families, and mingle with Children's Home President, Heidi Wiste.

Cheers to Children's Home | June 2023

Children's Home kicked-off summer at the "Cheers to Children's Home" event, hosted at Dual Citizen Brewery. The open house provided a relaxed atmosphere for friends and supporters to meet and mingle with Children's Home leaders and fellow community members who share a passion for supporting youth and families.

Twin Cities Pride Festival | June 2023

For the 10th consecutive year, Children's Home participated in the Twin Cities Pride Festival held at Loring Park in Minneapolis. Children's Home employees and volunteers hosted a booth, where they proudly promoted our commitment to serving all families while celebrating alongside nearly 400,000 attendees.

Back to School Bash | June 2023

The 2023 Children's Home Back to School Bash earned an "A+" from all involved! Held in partnership with Jockey Being Family Foundation—a long-time supporter of Children's Home's post adoption support services—the event provided more than 80 kids experiencing foster care with donated school supplies to ensure a successful start to the year.

THANK YOU. YOU HELP CHILDREN THRIVE!

At Children's Home, the well-being of children is our guiding principle. We know that you, too, care deeply for children and families. Your support—financial and through gifts of time and talent—are part of our strong foundation.

DREW & JENN BAESE: SUPPORTING CHILDREN'S HOME THROUGH DONATIONS AND LEADERSHIP

In 2005, Drew and Jenn Baese experienced a challenging pregnancy that left Jenn unable to carry a child. Yet the couple had a strong desire for more children. They also wanted their biological son, Matthias, to have the opportunity to grow up with a sibling. After attending an informational session at Children's Home, they decided to pursue adoption.

During the meeting, they were told of a long list of boys in Russia waiting for permanent homes. "Jenn has a huge soft spot for the underdog," Drew said.

"And with Drew having majored in Russian studies in college and having visited the country, well, it seemed the pieces of the puzzle came together, and this was just meant to be," continued Jenn.

The Baeses were ultimately matched with Dmitry, whom they brought to their Saint Paul home in 2009. Today, 16-year-old son Dmitry is a gifted artist who loves designing floor plans and building replicas of skyscrapers using the gaming software, Minecraft. "He's a budding architect, for sure!" said Jenn.

The Baese family's commitment to Children's Home extends beyond their role as adoptive parents; Drew is chair of the Children's Home board of directors, and the Baeses are dedicated financial donors.

"What Children's Home does costs money," said Drew. "How they allocate that money makes real change and affects real people. That's what drives our decision about where to put our charitable gifts."

Drew views the board's role as a support system for the organization's leadership. "The ultimate goal is to work ourselves out of a job, that no child is ever waiting for a home," said Drew. "I know that's unrealistic. There will always be a need. That's why the work Children's Home does is so critical."

BROOK MALLAK: AN ADVOCATE FOR ADOPTEES

Growing up in small-town Minnesota, Brook Mallak stood out in her predominantly white community. She, along with two of her three siblings, are Korean adoptees. Brook remembers the pain of being “different” from her classmates. She was teased, and she struggled to fit in. During the 1970s, there weren’t a lot of resources to help children who had been adopted internationally.

Now a member of the Children’s Home Foundation Board of Trustees, Brook appreciates that things have changed dramatically since she was adopted. “But many of the challenges of being adopted are timeless and universal,” said Brook. “It’s a complex journey. I hope I can shed light for other families through my own experience and service on the board.”

Brook’s adoption story began when her biological mother placed her for adoption due to poverty, a choice Brook respected throughout her life. With support from Children’s Home and other organizations, Brook reunited with her birth mother and siblings in South Korea last year.

“Meeting my birth family was an opportunity to hear stories about my early life, a privilege I realize many adoptees do not have. I’m very grateful.”

Brook sees her involvement on the Foundation Board as just one way to advocate for adoptees. She also participates on panels speaking to prospective adoptive parents. “I remind them all kids have struggles growing up, and you can’t love away the adoption trauma,” said Brook. “Being adopted is a lifelong journey.”

I hope I can shed light for other families through my own experience and service on the Board.”*
