The Story of Isaac Eun Soo French

- I was born in Gwanju, South Korea on August 15, 2000.
- My Korean name was Eun Soo Kwan.
- I was adopted by Charlie & Aimee French on October 30, 2003.
- I had surgery on my legs on November 3, 2004 to help me walk.
- Since I was small, I always tried everything.
- My motto is “Never Give Up”.

- In Korea, I was not expected to do everything.
- I was missing my tibia bones.
- I was supposed to just sit and watch the other kids play.

- When I came home, my parents noticed I was a ham.
- I didn't care about the missing tibia bones.

- I love water!

- My dad made sneakers with the toes cut off so I could try everything.

- I am not afraid to climb.

- When I was just four years old, I decided to try prosthetics.
- I had surgery in November 2004 to remove my lower legs.

- After a few days, I went back to doing everything, even with the body cast.
- I wore holes in the cast.

- Shriners Hospital made me new legs!
- By Christmas time I was taking my first steps.

- Soon I tried bowling and snow boarding in my new legs.

- I like to ride my bike.
- I also like to climb.

- I do all the fun things kids like to do.

Never Give Up!
